

CHANGE PLAN OF U. S. FLEET; SHE'S NO CRY-BABY, JUST CRIES WONT GO THRO CANAL FOR ART'S SAKE

Washington, May 10.—Following the conference of Gen. Goethals and Secy. Daniels on the arrival of the former from Panama, a department official said today that Goethals had said it would be best not to send the big Atlantic fleet through the canal to the fair this summer as had been planned.

Goethals said, according to this official, that it would take a week at least to tow a dreadnaught through the canal and that a storm or accident might result in the whole fleet being bottled up on the Pacific side with a bottled canal.

LATE LUSITANIA NEWS

London.—First Lord of the Admiralty Churchill told house of commons that the Lusitania had been warned of the presence of submarines. Said admiralty did not have resources to furnish escort to merchant or passenger ships.

New York.—Cunard says there were 4,200 cases of small arms cartridges aboard Lusitania, packed in separate cases and 1,250 empty steel shrapnel cases. No explosives of any kind aboard, it was said.

Austin, Tex.—Five "Lusitania" resolutions introduced in Texas legislature, all expressing confidence in Pres. Wilson.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

Liverpool.—Because of anti-German riots, saloons have been ordered to close at 6 o'clock.

Syracuse, N. Y. — Col. Roosevelt ended his defense in the Barnes-Roosevelt libel suit this afternoon after being 3 weeks in court.

Indianapolis.—Writ of error granted by Federal Judge Anderson to Don M. Roberts and other Terre Haute election corruption conspirators in Leavenworth.

Atlanta.—Judge Ben B. Hill today resentenced Leo M. Frank to die June 22.

Olive Johnson

Just to show that she is a real actress, 3-year-old Olive Johnson cried real tears in a movie play recently.

In order that the scene be enacted realistically, the director gave Olive a scolding for some imaginary prank. A nice stick of peppermint candy was pammed in her chubby little hands after the act was finished, and all was well.

Cleveland.—6 drowned, 5 rescued, when sand sucker Junior hit break-water and sank.
